

EFCA Training for Supervisors

BACK BY POPULAR DEMAND!

Wednesday, July 22 from 9am- Noon
Top of the 80's, Hazleton
Price: $90/Member. $180/Non-member

Employees' acceptance or rejection of union representation is heavily influenced by the relationship they have with their supervisors. Companies can take steps to improve that relationship by training their front-line supervisors.

MAEA will be conducting a workshop to train your supervisors to handle their increased responsibilities and broad role in dealing with the implications of the Employee Free Choice Act (EFCA).

About Ogletree Deakins

Ogletree Deakins and its public policy subsidiary Ogletree Government Affairs, Inc. have over 30 years experience in governmental affairs and public policy debates. It will play an integral role in the business coalition – The Coalition for a Democratic Workplace- in Washington and other states to help lead the opposition to the EFCA.

Areas covered in the workshop: Employee Free Choice Act (EFCA)

- Current Status
 - Compromise Efforts
 - Initial Collective Bargaining Strengthening Enforcement
 - Effects of the Act
 - Employers Response
- Remaining Union-Free In A Union Charged Environment
 - Labor's New Organizing Tactics
 - Recent Case Study
 - Advice on Remaining Union-Free
- Effectively Managing a Union-Free Workplace
 - Labor Law Reform
- Preparing Your Organization
 - Designate EFCA Response Team
- Define Organization's Position on Unions
 - Leadership Training
 - Safeguard the Organization
- Positive Employee Relations Program
 - Employee Education
- External Stakeholder Education
 - Urgency of Response

About the Presenter

The facilitator of this workshop Attorney Thomas Smock has practiced employment and labor law since 1975. His areas of emphasis are labor litigation and arbitration, negotiation and union representation campaigns. Mr. Smock is a frequent lecturer on issues impacting business and the organized labor movement.

To register your supervisors for this workshop, contact Gina Whalen at gwhalen@maea.biz or Chris Robbins at crobbs@maea.biz.

This training is also available to be performed on-site for your entire management and supervisory team.

Contact us for details.